The Sloane Court Practice is situated in a central area of West London, Chelsea, with excellent transport links.

Sloane Court West is a road leading south off Turks Row, a short walk from Sloane Square, down Lower Sloane Street.

Taxis are readily available in the area. Parking is available on meters in the local streets (you are strongly advised allow sufficient meter time as parking is strictly controlled).

Local buses include Routes 211, 11, 22, 19, 137, 319, 360, and C1 - see buses (PDF file). The nearest mainline railway station is Victoria - see trains.

Heathrow is about 45 minutes by road (double or more at peak times) - see Heathrow for further information.

Eurostar services terminate at St Pancras International, from where a Victoria line underground train can be taken to Victoria (5 stops) after which Sloane Square is one stop along the District or Circle lines (East bound) see tube maps.

Disabled Access

The consulting rooms are down a flight of fairly steep steps, and access is not available for wheelchairs. Arrangements can be made to see patients at an alternative nearby location at a fortnight's notice. Patients concerned about the steps can be met by a receptionist to be guided down the stairs. Please call Reception prior to arrival to arrange assistance (see Contact Information). For information on disabled travel in London in general, please visit this site.
